First Half Of Barracks To Go In Place Soon

First half of the WAVES barracks building from North Island, which was floated 23 miles around the point and into Mission bay last week in a spectacular engineering feat, was taken off the barge late Tuesday night and is now resting on land again near Glenn's Drive-In at the foot of Bacon St.

The new owners, the Sand-Oster Clinic, plan to have the first half moved up Bacon St. and to its new location facing Cable late this week. The second half is due to make a similar move next week.

Foundation already is in for the two halves which will be joined together, making a structure 136 feet in length and 33 feet 4 inches wide.

Two stories in height the building has about 40 rooms which are to be remodeled into their new use as part of the Sand-Oster Clinic. Installation of plumbing facilities in every room, painting and numerous other items are included in the plans for the remodeling. The heating plant, located in one of the first floor rooms, came with the building.

CLARK WOODLAND HIT ON HEAD AND ROBBED OF $400; SAVES RING

Clark Woodland, local card-room prorietor, was held up and robbed at his home early Sunday morning after closing the card-room. Two men ran up to "Woody" as he was preparing to open his garage doors. One of them held a gun against him while the other, also armed, covered the line of retreat. Approximately $400 in cash and about $300 in checks were taken from the victim's wallet. Woodland managed to slip a valuable ring off his finger and into his mouth while in the act of putting up his hands, thus depriving the thieves of an even bigger haul. After searching his pockets and removing the wallet, the stickup man knocked Woodland to the ground with a blow from the butt of his gun. Before escaping from the scene in a car parked in the street near the Woodland home, his assailant struck "Woody" twice more on the head.

Although unable to identify either of the men, "Woody" stated that his experience had taught him that "six full" was the winning hand when it was a six-shooter in your ribs.

HELEN'S BOOK STORE SOLD; NEW OWNERS ARE COL. AND MRS. T. MARKS

Col. and Mrs. Thomas D. Marks of 3322 Dumas St. have purchased Helen's Book Store from Helen Patten who had moved her business about June 1 to the new Home Appliance Co. building, newly built this year.

Col. Marks, recently retired from the Marine Corps, plans to be in the store most of the time with Mrs. Marks to relieve him occasionally. Under the new management the store is called the "Ocean Beach Stationers," and the new owners plan to add some new merchandise and to enlarge the store when they are able. Col. Marks started this week with a buying trip to Los Angeles.

Local Artists Praised; Muralist Joins Staff

Otto H. Schneider, prominent West Coast artist, and Eleanore Wilkevich, both residents of Ocean Beach, were mentioned favorably in the Art review of a downtown daily. Says the reviewer: "A fantastic landscape with figures by Otto H. Schneider is centered by a vivid carrousel." Two examples in the water color medium are Wendell Smith's "Mask Composition No. 1" and Eleanore Wilkevich's "Tamerlane." The exhibition in which these two works of art are hanging is a current show of the San Diego Art Guild held at the Fine Arts Gallery, 2030 Sunset Blvd. The modern trend is emphasized in both.

Sponsors Exhibition

Andrea Hine and Eleanore Wilkevich, Ocean Beach artists, are having an exhibition of their paintings at the Gallery of the Admiral hotel, 410 A St., San Diego. The exhibition is sponsored

Imperative Need For More Water Told Kiwanians

Imperative need of San Diego city and county for more domestic water was told the Kiwanis club Tuesday evening by G. E. Arnold, assistant city manager. Dr. Merrill Harrington was program chairman.

Election of seven directors for the ensuing year featured the business session. Elected by ballot were:

Milton Lancaster, Joe Beardsley, Rollin Reed, Dave Chandler, Glen Jones, Frank Swan and Arnold Morss.

The other four members of the board are to be the newly elected officers, namely: Henry Holman, president; Harry Masters, vice-president; Tom Plant, treasurer, and the secretary, yet to be chosen.

Arnold stated that "San Diego is using water twice as fast as it can be replenished under the present sources of supply, and that unless the additional water from Colorado river, our last main source of supply, is obtained we are due to be practically out of water by the end of next year, figuring on the basis of the present supply, and in event of another dry period this winter.

"We own 112,000-acre feet of water of the Colorado river, which when obtained through the aqueduct now building will provide us 136 per cent of what we are now getting in additional water."

Total cost of the new pipe line and distribution system, he estimated at $40,000,000, to be paid over a period of 40 years.

Under the present increase of 30 per cent water rates now being paid by San Diego water users, he figured that this increase will take care of the payments, making any increase in taxes unnecessary, he said.

To help pay the cost, the county Water Authority is asking for a $2,000,000 bond issue at the coming November 5 election, and the speaker urged that not only this proposition but the four other propositions being placed by the Water Authority and the city on the November 5 ballots be given a favorable vote.

WE'RE TWENTY-FOUR TODAY

With this issue, The Ocean Beach News starts its twenty-fifth year of continuous publication here. Founded twenty-four years ago this week, The News has shared the changing fortune of Ocean Beach during nearly a quarter century. It has accurately mirrored the life of the community during the boom times of the late twenties, the depression of the thirties and the times of stress during the recent war. Through the years, The News has prospered or suffered along with the rest of the Ocean Beach business community, surviving poor times, the pressure of competition, newsprint paper and help shortage and the routine problems that beset the small-town publisher. Under the present ownership, The News has made great strides keeping in step with the recent expansion of the population and increase in the size of the business section.

The Ocean Beach News today has reached an all-time peak of local readership with an ever-growing list of paid subscribers. It presents expanded news coverage with numerous regular features and columns. The enlarged and improved classified advertising section presents each week an economical method for local residents to dispose of surplus property, find desired items, locate help or work, and—surprisingly often in recent weeks—even places to live. Display advertising carried each week by The News for local merchants provides readers with a wide selection of articles and services which are available in Ocean Beach, and increasingly each week demonstrates the fact that readers need look no farther than their own business community for most purchases of goods or services. From an advertiser's standpoint, today's News with its larger paid circulation and its complete, mailed coverage of Ocean Beach through the new Ocean Beach News Shoppers Guide presents an unrivaled medium at reasonable rates.

Much as we have accomplished in our efforts to date to reflect the growth of the community we serve, the publishers pledge—both to readers and advertisers—to continue striving by every means that effort, hard work and good intentions can produce to provide for Ocean Beach the finest home newspaper in southern California.

Pointers Trounce Kearny; Play At Oceanside Today

Scoring both touchdowns in the first quarter of the game Point Loma High defeated a scrappy Kearny High eleven on Ross field here Friday by a score of 13 to 6. Jim Jensen ran 11 yards for the first counter and Don Jones 35 on a recovered fumble for the other. Fred Bates scored for Kearny in the second frame on a sparkling 90-yard return of a punt.

Today (Friday) the Pointers take on Oceanside on the latter's field, in what is expected to be a close contest.

Homecoming Next

Next big game on local gridiron will be the "Homecoming" game next week Friday, October 25, starting at 2:30, with Grossmont as the opponent. Indications are that this will be the hardest fought game of this season for the Pointers, with the championship of the Metropolitan league partly hinging on the outcome.

Other Results Friday

Results in other local high school games played last Friday were as follows:

La Jolla 32, Coronado 0.
Grossmont 13, Escondido 13.
Oceanside 6, Sweetwater 6.
San Diego 12, Loyola of Los Angeles 13.

A miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Clark Huston, a bride of this summer, was a feature. "The birds talked to me—
'Chee, chee, chee'
And I talked back to them:
'I want to buy you,
But I haven't got the money.'"

Mrs. Conger's second grade class was on hand to watch one of the WAVES barracks go through the opening in Mission Bay bridge last Thursday. Phil Sjoberg, Mrs. Art Crouch, Mrs. Charles Chappell, Mrs. Ken Brumley, Mrs. Paul Farrar, Mrs. John Ware and Mrs. Barton Gregg furnished cars to transport the children.

The children will include the new Mission Bay Harbor in their study of San Diego harbor activities.

ARCTIC EXPLORER, BIG GAME HUNTER, IN LOCAL DENTIST OFFICE

Dr. B. F. Ederer, a former lieutenant commander in the Navy, a professional man with an unusual career, is now practicing dentistry in Ocean Beach, being associated with Dr. Merrill Harrington in the Kraft Bldg. He started his new duties here October 1.

As an Arctic explorer, Dr. Ederer is reported to be the first man known to have made the 3400-mile trip down the McKenzie river over the Richardson Mts. to the headquarters of the Yukon river in Alaska. While his explorations there were largely in the interests of science he combined big game hunting and photography on his trips in the far north.

While his home was at Morris, Minn., he served one term as a representative in the Minnesota legislature.

During a large part of his several years of service in the Navy in the late World war, he was stationed at the Naval training station in San Diego. While here he became so much in love with this climate that he decided to make this part of California his home.

Dr. and Mrs. Ederer have five children. They are living in La Jolla, having been released from the Navy early this year.

"NEEDLENOISE"

(By Ellis Jacobson)

Tex Beneke and what is supposed to be the Glenn Miller orchestra appeared at the Mission Beach "Dancery" last week-end and as expected had a large turnout. The usual G. M. standards of old were played . . . though you'd hardly recognize some of them now because of poor renditions and many changes in the original arrangements. Beneke is attempting to follow Miller's style in most of his arrangements but doesn't even approach the high standards of the original orch. Miller was a musical precisionist of the top grade and would tolerate nothing but the best, as can be heard in his recordings. Beneke has completely neglected Glenn's perfection policy. The present trumpet and trombone sections strong . . . the latter featuring several good soloists. Reeds . . . not bad, not good . . . they have none of the full bodied, strong tones that were so much a part of the Miller style. The band is frequently off beat, which can be accounted largely to poor drumming. The outfit is large . . . strings and even a French horn adorn the band and for all its pretentious appearances they have very little to show. His renditions of the old favorites were inexcusably, careless and sloppy. Lillian Lane handles the fem vocal department and sounds a great deal like Jo Stafford. Artie Malvi, the vocal in the swoon section, puts forth better than average renditions. The Crewchiefs, formerly with the G. Miller Army band, give out with some clean choruses.

Jo Stafford has come out with a platter that is far below her usual standard. She is hampered by two very slow and tuneless songs, "'The Things We Did Last Summer" and "You Keep Coming Back to Me." Stafford seems to have lost some of that eerie whine that is a trademark of her style. Let's hope it doesn't find its way back. Paul Weston and boys are present with the usual good accompaniment . . . just a fair record . . . Buy an extra package of needles instead.

Some odd scratches . . . Vido Musso is forming his own band on the coast . . . Boyd Raeburn is losing most of his star sidemen . . . Peggy Lee may be featured vocalist on the new Bing Crosby program . . . Tommy Dorsey says he will disband his orch. soon . . . Jerry Wald now at the Palladium.

Here's California's Answer to Apathy, General!

California has the answer to apathy, General!

Proposition 2 will give the veterans of this State an assistance program second to none, supported NOT from legislative appropriations, NOT from new taxes, but from A GUARANTEED PERCENTAGE OF THE PROCEEDS OF STATE-SUPERVISED GREYHOUND RACING.

That makes sense to us, General, as veterans and as taxpayers.

California veterans want to see Number 2 win. They know California is not going to let her veterans down.

THIS STATE'S ANSWER TO APATHY IS
"YES" on 2

The Babee-Tenda Safety Chair

A Revolutionary Development in

NURSERY EQUIPMENT APPROVED BY MOTHERS ALL OVER THE COUNTRY!

As Baby sits up and becomes more active, you will worry about that constant danger of serious injury from falling, especially if a high chair is used. Your Baby will be safer in a Babee-Tenda because it is much lower and square, not top-heavy at all. A specially designed harness-type strap keeps Baby from climbing out. The wide table space around the seat prevents Baby from grasping at things. That's why the Babee-Tenda simply cannot be tipped or pulled over.

Belle Benchley Scores Hit With Local Book Club

(By Marian Krettler)

When our "Zoo Lady" rises around four to do her stint of writing, hurries eagerly to the zoo to see if that extra-sized egg is really hatching twin cobra babies, then begins her routine of busy days, she must have a bit of rest.

And so, a large and fascinated audience at Monday evening's session of the Woman's club literary section held at the Woman's club house reluctantly released the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Belle Benchley. Her announced subject was her path to authorship, but after the account of how she came to write the three magnificent books on animals, she informally and delightfully told of her charges at the zoo and answered numerous queries concerning them.

"If I listened to Mrs. Benchley often enough, I think I could even learn to like snakes myself," commented a member of the Junior Woman's club during the following social hour. Of late, Belle Benchley has been playing Cupid to cobras and the resultant reptilian progeny are as interesting to her as are warmer-blooded proteges.

When Mrs. Benchley and her zoo became the subject of one of a series of moving pictures showing women in unusual occupations, she caught the attention of editors. Could she write a book about animals? After almost 19 years of editing Zoo News, she thought she could. But the editors had their own ideas of how that writing should be done. They wanted the authoress to be the heroine of each hair-raising chapter of conflict, escape and subsequent conquering of wild denizens of the zoo. Mrs Benchley, however, didn't see it that way, and during what was supposed to be a 15-minute talk with an editor, so interested him in tales of her charges that he finally permitted her to write in her own fashion.

"Life in a Manmade Jungle" has been widely translated, done into Braille, and finally into film for hospitalized veterans. At the touch of a button, the pages of the book are projected in the hospital ceiling and thus patients find happy escape from boredom.

"My Friends, the Apes" followed and "Why Animal Babies" completed a trilogy selling widely over the world. Yet, the authoress confesses that on the day "My Life in a Manmade Jungle" was first released to San Diego readers, she so doubted its success that she wished she hadn't written it.

Like all successful writers. Belle Benchley is besieged by many would-be authors. Some, in a half hour interview with her want to write all about animals. without realizing that there are many classes of mammals and knowing little about them. So, Mrs. Benchley stressed the importance of writing about subjects with which one is familiar. and of securing a good agent for business details when the projected book is finished.

Following the trend of some human mothers, sometimes animal babies are deserted or mistreated. If the small creatures can be rescued in time, they are fed with goat's milk. If Nanny considers her adopted offspring too strange for direct nourishment, then Nanny must be milked and the foster children hand fed. As soon, however, as they are on a hard diet, they are turned into pens with the young of their own species in order that they may learn to play and fend for themselves.

When wild animals are raised as pets and reach dangerous maturity, they are often given to the zoo. But such gifts are not encouraged. Either they cower when quartered with others of their kind, are attacked and killed, or else they turn on their new companions and trouble ensues.

Receiving only an eighth of its support from the city of San Diego, our local zoo pays its own way, through constant streams of visitors. In its finely equipped hospital, valuable data is compiled and postmortems disclose the causes of death. Thus, much information is available to other zoos throughout the world.

And now about that cobra brood. Deposited in a large crock with humidity carefully controlled, the leathery cobra eggs were sheltered and observed during the nine weeks of incubation. Each tiny reptile comes equipped with a knifelike appendage at the snout end with which slits are cut in the leathery envelope. Small reptilian heads appear and draw back until the creature finally decides to investigate this strange world — which even a snake doesn't like at first—and emerges with finality from its shelter.

The final egg of the cobra clutch is due to hatch this week. Extra large and with slits appearing on two sides, it gives promise of twins. If her Ocean Beach audience enthused at the idea of increasing San Diego's snake population, it was due to the speaker's interest for all the creatures in her devoted care.

If the wide and all-including love Mrs. Benchley displays for her creatures could spread over the world, we might even come to love professional politicians and peoples whose ways we do not understand. And wouldn't that be SOMETHING?

Arrangements for the appearance of Mrs. Belle Benchley as guest speaker for Monday's meeting of the literary group, were made by Mrs. Dean Marshall. Expecting a treat, the large and enthusiastic audience was not disappointed. Mrs. Benchley was at her splendid best, and during the following social hour, her talk was the subject of much lively conversation.

The chairman, Mrs. Paul Farrar, presided over the session and Mrs. Julia McGarvey and Mrs. A. L. Johnston were hostesses. Mesdames Frank F. Swan and Paul Farrar poured, and members of the Ocean Beach Woman's club were welcome guests.

Virginia Ericson of 4711 Lotus St. was the hostess at a surprise stork shower honoring Mrs. Ruth Carter of 4744 Lotus St. Friday evening. Appropriate decorations were used and the gifts for Mrs. Carter were opened. The guests were Dorene Martin, Mildred Strand, Lucy Fielding, Leola Kellar, Barbara Shirley, Shirley Homan, Marcella Daniels, Virginia Martin, Loretta Greaser, Mrs. Gwen Meyers, Marie Love and Mrs. Carter and Miss Carter from North Carolina who are visiting at the home of the honoree.

Muralist Joins Staff

Belle Baranceanu, celebrated Roumanian muralist and portrait painter, and member of the San Diego art colony since 1933, has joined the staff of the San Diego School of Arts and Crafts. She conducted her first class at the local school last Saturday and was received by the students with enthusiasm, reports Director Orren Louden. Vice-Mayor Walter Austin attended the afternoon lecture and congratulated the director on being fortunate enough to have such a competent and distinguished artist on the staff.

In the opinion of the director Miss Baranceanu's work is second to none on the West Coast. Her murals in San Diego have attracted attention and admiration not only here but also in New York art circles and she has the unusual and rare combination of being not only an artist of the first order but also an unusually fine instructor. Says Louden "the murals of Belle Baranceanu will go down in art history as examples of American art—they will outlive most of the work of today because they are sound in draftsmanship, solid in good composition, design and space relationship and at the same time reflect her dynamic personality and understanding of that which is good in art and worth preserving."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powell of 4755 Niagara Ave. have returned to Ocean Beach from Lake Arrowhead, where Mr. Powell worked on a construction job this summer.

MORGAN ELLIOTT BACK FROM EXTENDED TOUR OF U. S. AND CANADA

Morgan Elliott, formerly of the local Bank of America staff, and his mother, Mrs. Morgan Elliott Colby, returned Tuesday from a vacation sightseeing and visiting tour of the U. S. A. and Canada lasting nearly three months. Their tour took in practically all the three other corners of the country, figuring Puget Sound as one corner, Portland, Me., as another and Savannah, Ga., as the third. From San Diego their itinerary included British Columbia, Jasper National park, Lake Louise, Minneapolis, Chicago, Montreal, Burlington, Vt., Quebec, Portland, Me., Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Scranton, Savannah, Ga., New Orleans, Fort Worth, Tex., then home. At Lake Louise they enjoyed a visit with Morgan's brother-in-law, Van A. France of Spokane (a former San Diegan). High spots of the trip, according to Morgan, were a cruise on the Saguinay river, a tributary of the St. Lawrence river, in Canada; seeing most of the big stage shows in New York City, and the finals and semi-finals of the national tennis matches at Forest Hills, Long Island. "We mixed sightseeing with visiting relatives and friends on the entire trip, an arrangement we found really a happy one," Morgan commented on his return here. He will report Monday to the Bank of America for his new assignment which he stated probably would be in a branch bank near Los Angeles.

Mrs. G. M. Hansen and Mrs. Frances Neill will be hostesses to the Synergian Circle at Mrs. Hansen's home at 4925 Del Monte Ave. at noon on Oct. 25. Luncheon will be followed by a business meeting.

The News was informed yesterday that Frank Abreu of 3035 Lowell St., who was injured last week in an explosion aboard the fishing boat Jenita, is continuing to improve at Quintard hospital and expects to return to his home soon.

Mrs. Melvin Hansen and son, Gilbert, of 4925 Del Monte Ave., were in Escondido Tuesday on business and visiting friends.

Willis LeJeune and Mrs. Clinton LeJeune left Thursday last week for Louisiana to attend the wedding of his niece. They expect to be gone about three weeks.

SOUND OFF

QUESTION: What suggestions do you have to offer as to Christmas decorations for Ocean Beach?

"If Ocean Beach could buy some Christmas decorations which would be appropriate and colorful and at the same time lasting, we could add to our supply each year and also save on our expense."—Rollin Reed (Mgr.) Bank of America.

"Since our community is rapidly becoming the Art center of the west coast, the merchants and property owners should lead San Diego county in Christmas decoration. The art school students and also the staff will be pleased to aid in any way with the planning." Orren Louden (Director) School of Arts and Crafts.

"I should like to see the old-fashioned Christmas motif carried out in the decorations for Ocean Beach, using bells and holly and sprigs of evergreen branches instead of the extremely modern type of decoration which is becoming more and more the custom."—Mrs. E. Boyer, Yvonne's Children Shop.

"I think we should have fairyland Christmas pictures strung on wires and on the lamp posts and decorate the stores with a cheery motif. Also we should bear in mind that Christmas is primarily for children in our decorations. I have always admired the way Hollywood decorated the Boulevard for Christmas." — Ray Perine, Family Barber Shop.

"I think appropriate decorations should be displayed at least 30 days previous to Christmas to brighten our community and express the season's greetings."—Bert Bowling, Beacon Electric.

"I have always liked the idea of using small evergreen trees especially since we have a lack of greenery here at the beach. I have seen them used in other small towns very successfully."—Myrtle Orrick (Housewife), 4542 Bermuda Ave.

"If it could be done without too much expense, I should like to see Newport Avenue brilliantly lighted during the Christmas season."—Meriel Jones, 5029 Lotus St.

Next Week's Question: What do you think could be done to clear up the traffic and parking congestion on Newport Ave.?

Mrs. Earl Kail and children of San Francisco are visiting her sister, Mrs. L. P. Eller of 4736 Niagara Ave. for a few days.

Vote 'YES' on 3!"

Proposition 3 will relieve the teacher famine in California by guaranteeing public school teachers a minimum salary of $2400 a year. Local taxes will not be increased by this measure. State funds are available for this purpose.

Two hundred California organizations, including the following, urge you to vote "YES" on 3—Republican and Democratic Parties, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, AFL, CIO, Native Daughters and Native Sons, and P-T A.

And remember—when you vote "Yes" on 3, be sure to vote "No" on 13, which would further reduce present inadequate school appropriations.

Mrs. Smith inquired at the gates of heaven for her husband.

"What's your name?" asked the guard.

"Mrs. Smith."

"But we have thousands of Smiths here. What's your husband's first name?"

"James Smith."

"Oh, but madame, we have thousands of James Smiths here. Can you be more explicit?"

"Well, my husband told me just before he died that if I went out with another man he would turn over in his grave."

"Of course, I know your husband," and turning to an assistant he ordered, "Run upstairs and get Whirling Jim."

SERVICE TO PUBLIC GOAL OF LUCKEL IN RACE FOR ASSEMBLY

California government has made noteworthy advances in the last four years, and voters will be serving themselves well by continuing and strengthening state leadership, Capt. Frank Luckel, U. S. N. (retired), of Ocean Beach, candidate for assembly, 78th district, declared this week.

Luckel, a veteran of both World wars, and long interested in community and state affairs, said he views the job of assemblyman as an opportunity to render a definite public service.

"Now is the time for thoughtful Americans to be 'choosey' in their selection of public officials," Luckel stated. "We must resist every attempt of radicals to get into positions of power.

"I stand for every possible economy in government, for industrial peace, veterans' welfare and housing, free enterprise and elimination of bureaucracy."

Capt. and Mrs. Luckel reside at 1036 Savoy St., Ocean Beach.

MRS. LEONORA E. MAY, SUMMONED BY DEATH, LIVED HERE 25 YEARS

Mrs. Leonora Elizabeth May of 4418 Brighton Ave. died Thursday in a local hospital. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Clara Coleman of Ocean Beach, and a sister in Oregon. Services were held Monday morning in the Beardsley Funeral chapel, with Rev. Charles Severance officiating. Cremation and interment in the Greenwood cemetery followed.

Mrs. May had lived here for 25 years. She was born in Oregon where her father was a pioneer missionary, coming west in a covered wagon in the early 1800s.

PRIZE SPEECH

It's too bad that an "Oscar" or Pulitzer prize is not given annually for the best non-political speech of the year.

If some such award were made regularly there would be no doubt as to the 1946 winner. He is the chap who "addressed" the convention of diaper manufacturers in the South.

Having been assigned to speak on the subject of new laundry machinery he arose and said, "There isn't any."
